3. DATA SHARING BETWEEN SB COMPANIES

SB Companies collect joint consents for direct marketing, i.e. by consenting to direct marketing by SB Companies to you, you consent to several data controllers at the same time. This means that in order to administer such consents, SB Companies will have to share personal data in certain cases. For example:

- The SB company to which you have applied and to which you have given your consent shall pass on the personal data necessary for direct marketing to other SB Companies;
- If you update your contact details at one SB Company, they will automatically be updated at the other SB Companies (direct marketing is carried out with the last contact details provided to any of the SB Companies);
- If you inform one of the SB Companies about the withdrawal of consent, the withdrawal will be communicated and will be valid for all SB Companies.

Personal data is also shared by SB Companies if they have obtained your consent to send you personalised direct marketing communications and to share your personal data for that purpose. This sharing of personal data is discussed in more detail in Section 5 of the Privacy Notice PERSONALLY SUBMITTED PROPOSALS (PROFILING).

4. WHAT CONSENTS DO WE COLLECT FOR DIRECT MARKETING?

You can give your consent to:

- The provision of direct marketing offers by SB Companies (of a general nature, not personally tailored), in which case each of the SB Companies will process the following personal data for the purpose of carrying out the direct marketing: name, surname, date of birth, email address, telephone number, mailing address;

Find out more about the partners: www.sb.lt/en/about/partners.

Exception. If the direct marketing consents are an integral part of the contract or application, we will keep them as part of the contract or application for 10 years from the expiry of the contract (even if the above 2 years expires earlier).

At the end of the period of validity of the consent for direct marketing, SB Companies may contact you to renew the consent.
